

Clear2there Partners With Trans-West Network Solutions

Phoenix-based Reseller will offer Clear2there video surveillance products and Viewbiquity M2M applications to business customers

Oklahoma City, OK March 30, 2011—Clear2there, a leading provider of advanced video surveillance and M2M solutions for service providers and enterprises, has announced a partnership with Phoenix-based Trans-West Network Solutions, a recognized leader in providing customized business communications and networking services to clients in Arizona and throughout the United States. As part of the arrangement, Trans-West will offer Clear2there's full line of video surveillance products, as well as Viewbiquity M2M (Machine-to-Machine) applications to business customers.

"Adding Trans-West as a reseller for Clear2there is an exciting development," said Greg Mantia, chief executive officer for Clear2there. "The company is renowned for its close relationship with its customers, from small businesses to multi-national corporations, by providing best-in-class solutions that address the unique business needs of each. The relationship with Trans-West gives us an expansive and efficient network to deliver next-generation surveillance and M2M technologies that have a profound impact on business operations."

Video surveillance continues to be a growth market for providing, security, protection from liability claims, workman compensations, and overall customer satisfaction. In addition, the recent launch of the Viewbiquity platform, combines management of video, energy management, environment controls, VoIP voice communication and other types of sensor device monitoring, into a cloud-based easy to use platform, offered at a low cost monthly service.

Providing customized technology solutions for businesses for more than 30 years, Trans-West's best-in class offerings incorporate voice, data and video communications, business continuity and disaster recovery, managed services, security, and business intelligence. A 30th anniversary technology showcase at Trans-West headquarters on April 6th will highlight many of these technology solutions as well as the newly acquired offerings from Clear2there. "With dynamic new capabilities like M2M and enhanced video surveillance technology available from Clear2there, we can offer our customers new and compelling technology components to improve productivity and efficiency,” said Herb Rosen, chief executive officer/president for Trans-West. “We see our partnership with Clear2there as an essential part of our growth strategy to deliver new and exciting services and technologies to our customers.”
